A new parallel method for simulations with non-overlapping disconnected mesh domains but adjacent boundaries is presented and studied. This technique allows simulations using 3D unstructured meshes that are independent.